

Leaving college can be difficult for some students, easy for others

At the New Jersey Ad Club's Career Day, April 8, at Montclair State University, highly successful entrepreneur, David Kay, will help your students learn how to launch a career the right way.

The 29-year-old Kay has extensive experience working with large and small companies. His expertise ranges from Fortune 500 companies to local 'mom and pop' businesses.

He is corporate relations chair for the North Essex Chamber of Commerce in West Caldwell and is one of the founders of Networking Opportunities.biz. He will explain how to create goals, track them and actually achieve them.
