My experience at Marist gave me more than just an education in fashion merchandising; it provided a well-rounded perspective shaped by studying abroad in Florence, internships, and hands-on classroom experiences. Serving as Student Creative Director for Silver Needle Runway helped me develop essential skills like collaboration, communication, and problem-solving that translate directly into my current role. Through Marist Career Services and School of Fashion events, I also built meaningful connections and landed my first internship at an on-campus career fair. While the fashion industry can be competitive, building relationships early and leaving a lasting impression can make all the difference.

Marist provided me with unique opportunities that can be found nowhere else. I was encouraged to pursue interdisciplinary research and I was supported the entire way. Exploring my diverse interests and receiving funding to conduct and publish research made me the well-rounded professional that I am now. I was also able to accelerate my early career by gaining strategic on-job experience working in our datacenter and becoming our lead network technician. Marist also played a key role in navigating my early career, as dedicated professors helped me to find jobs within my interests, prepare for my interviews, and negotiate my offers.

“Throughout my time at Marist, I was able to take advantage of all that they have to offer. The support from faculty allowed me to explore my passions while getting professional hands on experience. As a political science student, I had the opportunity to work with local non profits through the Center for Civic Engagement and intern for a NY State Senator through the Albany Summer Internship Program. These experiences helped shape my professional career and allowed me to feel better prepared to enter the workforce.

“During my time at Marist, I had the opportunity to take a wide range of classes that helped me develop a well-rounded understanding of finance. These courses allowed me to learn the language of finance while also building a strong work ethic that has carried over into the professional world. Through group projects, presentations, extensive research papers, and the expectation to dress professionally and be punctual, Marist instilled many of the habits that have contributed to my success in my first role after graduating. I am grateful that Marist provided me with the tools and foundation needed to succeed in the real world and excel in my career.”

When I was choosing between colleges, I decided on Marist because I believed that the location and programs offered would expose me to greater opportunities. I can confidently say that Marist not only delivered great education, but also a fantastic study abroad program, numerous major and minor offerings, great support from alumni, staff, and professors, as well as career support to help me thrive in my chosen field. I felt not only prepared, but even encouraged to try as many options as possible both on and off campus. Marist truly is not just a university; it's a stepping stone to achieving your fullest potential.
