Welcome to Summer School 2025! I am excited to embark on this educational journey together over the coming weeks. Whether you are here to catch up, get ahead, or explore new subjects, I am committed to making this summer session both enriching and rewarding for you.

This course is designed to be highly participatory, emphasizing collaborative learning among peers. Your active engagement and contributions will not only enhance your own understanding but also enrich the learning experience for everyone involved. Therefore, I encourage you to come prepared to share your thoughts, ask questions, and engage in meaningful discussions.

WELCOME

One crucial aspect of ensuring a successful summer session is familiarizing yourself with the course syllabus. It serves as a roadmap for our time together, outlining the objectives, expectations, and schedule for the course. Please take the time to thoroughly read through it, as it will provide valuable guidance throughout the summer.

It's important to note that this course is fast-paced, and staying organized will be essential to keeping up with the course demands. Be proactive in managing your time, staying on top of assignments, and seeking help when needed.

As we embark on this learning adventure together, I encourage you to approach each day with enthusiasm, curiosity, and a willingness to learn from both me and your fellow classmates. I am confident that with dedication and perseverance, we will have a rewarding and successful summer session.

WELCOME

Dr. Stacy Williams is the Director of New York State Education Department Multi-tiered System of Supports-Integrated (MTSS-I) center located at the University at Albany, an Associate Professor and Director of Field Training at Marist University, a licensed psychologist and certified school psychologist in New York State. As a founding member of Creating Inclusive Communities (CIC) and inaugural director of Marist College Diversity Leadership Institute (MCDLI), Dr. Williams and her colleagues have provided diversity and equity training to faculty and staff to support diversity and inclusion activities in the classroom and in the wider campus community. Dr. Williams regularly provides training in social justice, creating inclusive classrooms, academic and behavioral interventions, data-based decision-making for teachers, and university/school partnerships. At the national level, Dr. Williams serves on the Trainers of School Psychologists (TSP) executive board in an Advisory role. Additionally, Dr. Williams mentors students and early career faculty of color through the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP) mentoring program. At the state level, Dr. Williams mentors school psychology candidates, and develops content for the state association annual conference.
