

welcome to Culture & Psychology

HELLO

Welcome to Summer School 2026! I am excited to take this educational journey with you. Whether you are here to catch up, get ahead, or explore new learning, please know that I am committed to creating a supportive, engaging, and rewarding summer experience.

Because this course moves quickly, staying organized and familiarizing yourself with the syllabus will be important. The syllabus will serve as our roadmap, outlining expectations, assignments, and important dates. I encourage you to come prepared, ask questions, participate in discussions, and seek support when needed. With effort, curiosity, and collaboration, we can make this a meaningful and successful summer session.

DR. WILLIAMS BIO

Dr. Williams is an Associate Professor and Director of Field Training in the School Psychology Program at Marist University. She is a licensed psychologist, nationally certified school psychologist, and certified school psychologist in New York State.

Her work focuses on creating supportive and inclusive learning environments, academic and behavioral supports, social justice, and data-based decision-making in schools. She is active in the field at the state and national levels, serving in an advisory role with Trainers of School Psychologists and mentoring graduate students, early career faculty of color, and future school psychologists.
